SECTION 5. READING COMPREHENSION. Read carefully the text about Dominic O' Leary and then answer the questions.

“WORLD CHAMPION MEMORY MAN”

Dominic O'Leary is the man with the best memory in the world. He can tell you the day of any date in any year. What day was April 21, 1876? 'Wednesday', says Dominic. He can remember the teams and the scores of every football match in every World Cup. And he became world champion memory man when he remembered the order of thirty-five packs of playing cards!

At school, Dominic was a pupil who couldn't remember his lessons. 'My maths and English teachers said I was stupid because I could never remember what they taught me'. But four years ago he saw a programme on television which showed people how to improve their memory, and last October he became world champion. 'I remembered the order of thirty-five packs of cards', said Dominic. 'It was quite easy'. Dominic, 34, can earn £ 800 a day on European TV programmes.

He lives with his wife, Alison, a clothes designer, in a small village near Bath, and he is the manager of an office cleaning company. In his free time, Dominic loves number games and crosswords, writing music, and playing the piano. He says children can learn to improve their memory from the age of five. "Then they can do anything", he says.

A. Read the article about Dominic O' Leary and decide if the first four sentences are correct or incorrect. Tick ✓ A (YES = correct) or X (NO = incorrect).

1. Dominic can remember the teams and the scores of every basketball match in every NBA series.
2. At school he was a pupil who couldn't remember his lessons.
3. He thinks children can learn to improve their memory from the age of 3.
4. His wife designs clothes.

B. Now answer these last two questions:

5. When did he start to improve his memory? What did he see?

6. Crosswords are

- A. grammar mistakes
